
Saiu os primeiros reviews do iPhone!

Postado por Nikon - 2007/06/27 00:49

<http://www.macrumors.com/>

NY Times: David Pogue

- "so sleek and thin, it makes Treos and BlackBerrys look obese."
- After walking around with the iPhone unprotected for 2 weeks, no marks on it. Glass smudges are easily wiped off.
- 700 megabytes is occupied by the phone's software
- Making calls can be a 6 step process if phone is off.
- Web, Email is superior
- Battery Life Test: 5 hours video, 23 hours audio. Note: did not turn off Wi-Fi and other features as Apple suggests.
- Typing was OK. Difficult at first, but learned to "trust" the keyboard. "The BlackBerry won't be going away anytime soon."
- Cites AT&T network as iPhone's biggest downfall. Cites Consumer Reports survey which ranks AT&T network as last or second to last in 19 out of 20 major US cities.
- AT&T's EDGE cellular network: "excruciatingly slow"
- Slideshow of photos taken with iPhone
- Video Review

http://www.macrumors.com/c.php?u=http%3A%2F%2Fvideo.on.nytimes.com%2Findex.jsp%3Ffr_story%3Dcaed76f16c6132710db58210df3940afb8a3f7c8&t=1182905102

Newsweek: Steven Levy

- bottom line is that the iPhone is a significant leap
- The iPhone is the rare convergence device where things actually converge.
- e-mail looks more like you're working on a computer than a clunky phone
- YouTube videos work great on Wi-Fi, but can display in a lower quality when you're not at a hotspot and are using AT&T's EDGE network
- unless I did a lot of video watching or Web browsing, could generally last the day
- I've been jamming it in my pocket with keyrings, coins and pens, and so far it's nearly as good as new.

USA Today: Edward Baig

- Apple's iPhone isn't perfect, but it's worthy of the hype
- The revelation is that it's also comfortable to hold and touch.
- I expected to miss the tactile feel that a physical keyboard provides. I didn't.
- You can hold a conference call with up to five people.
- No voice recognition or voice dialing
- halfway decent internal speakers for listening if you set the thing down
- iPod games are not compatible with iPhone
- our company tech department raised questions about the security settings Apple required with our Microsoft Exchange servers.
- Battery life didn't prove to be a big problem in my unscientific tests

The Wall Street Journal's Walt Mossberg and Katherine Boehret have posted their review of the Apple iPhone.

Mossberg and Bohret tested the iPhone for two weeks in multiple usage scenarios and in various cities:

Our verdict is that, despite some flaws and feature omissions, the iPhone is, on balance, a beautiful and breakthrough handheld computer. Its software, especially, sets a new bar for the smart-phone industry, and its clever finger-touch interface, which dispenses with a stylus and most buttons, works well, though it sometimes adds steps to common functions.

Some highlights:

- largest, highest resolution screen of any smart phone they've seen, most internal memory
- Impressive battery life and thin
- Feels solid
- Regarding the touch keyboard: "After five days of use, Walt -- who did most of the testing for this review -- was able to type on it as quickly and accurately as he could on the Palm Treo he has used for years."
- Can't use T-Mobile SIM cards
- Wi-Fi capability doesn't fully make up for the lack of a fast cellular data capability
- Multitouch: "effective, practical and fun"
- No way to copy/paste text

- Microsoft's Exchange system support
 - Voice call quality was good, but not great
 - Can't record video
 - No Adobe Flash support
 - Songs can't be set as ringtones
- <http://link.brightcove.com/services/link/bcpid452319854/bctid1077968178>

Re:Saiu os primeiros reviews do iPhone!

Postado por aha - 2007/06/30 13:28

postei na macpress e vou postar aqui tb, pois todos deve saber a verdade:

Gente! acho que o iPhone não é importante! não saiu nem uma linha sobre ele no melhor site de noticias do mundo, o UOL!!

Alem disso a superinteressante fez uma avaliação idônea do iPhone este mes e avisa: o melhor iPhone não é o iPhone!! Apesar de ser o mais barato dos 4 avaliados, ele perde em vários pontos, inclusive graças a super descobri a pior falha: o iPhone não roda o windows mobile!!!!

acho que todos eles tem o iAiai: uma dor de cotovelo gigante....

:woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo:

Re:Saiu os primeiros reviews do iPhone!

Postado por aha - 2007/06/30 13:53

assistam o vídeo do david pogue no final da página!!!!

<http://www.nytimes.com/pages/technology/index.html?adxnnl=1&adxnnlx=1183210535-PJwZaklg4FTEYGIgcHkQg>

:laugh: :laugh: :laugh: :laugh: :laugh: :laugh: :laugh:

Postagem editada por: aha, em: 2007/06/30 13:53
